RELEASE 020118

Reservists return home after more than 6 months in the Middle East

JOINT BASE CHARLESTON, S.C. – More than 15 Airmen from the 315th Security Forces Squadron will return to Charleston today after a six month deployment to the Middle East.

The Air Force Reserve Security Forces members were deployed to a location in Southwest Asia and were responsible for base security and provided fly-away security teams during their support for the Global War on Terror.

The returning Airman are part of the nearly 40 deployed Security Forces reservists from Joint Base Charleston, who will be coming home over the next few weeks.

The Airmen will be flying into the Charleston International Airport today at 11 a.m. They will be welcomed home by family, friends and other military members. One Airman will be given a surprise promotion to the rank of Second Lieutenant when he arrives.
